

Donna Andrews – Ball Ground, GA:

WHY I WALK: Because of breast cancer, I never had the opportunity to meet my mother-in-law or sister-in-law . They both died many years ago when a diagnosis of breast cancer was an automatic death sentence. My mother-in-law died before she reached the age of 50. She left behind two grown children and a 10 year old son - my husband. My sister-in-law served as a mother figure until her death - approximately 15 years later, before she reached the age of 40! I walk so that someday mothers won't be leaving behind children and that death from breast cancer will be a rare occurrence.
